WE APPEAL TO

All Princetonians who are anxious to share their Christmas with others, with others whose marginal ways of life force them to remain in the shadows where Christmas can be just another long, long day.

Because Christmas, particularly in a world shaken by fears and doubts, is the season for inner as well as for outer joy, and because too seldom do youngsters behind the curtains of despair and want come to sense that Christmas is also for them, TOWN TOPICS presents the following facts for the thoughtful consideration of the entire community.

There are in our midst a great many youngsters—some 50 girls and boys of all ages—who are the victims of forces and situations they may never understand. While their every-day needs, such as food, a home of sorts, and medicine when they are sick, are met by the established welfare services, what these forgotten few need above all else is the assurance that grown-ups care, and never more than at Christmas, about what happens to children crying out for a chance to live.

The case of eight-year old Charlie speaks not only for Charlie, a star-crossed child ever since he was born, but for the many others who are groping for security and are old enough to realize that their own lives are different from the lives of most of those they see. Forgotten by his parents, and shunted through institutions for some six years, this haunted second grader is discovering his first measure of happiness with a new foster mother, whom he can't bear to have out of his sight. Together, with the right kind of understanding help, they can succeed in relieving the grinding pressures which threaten Charlie's adjustment to the world around him.

Four appealing children, the oldest of whom is 16 and is demonstrating marked potential in the High School, are constantly aware of the problems of eking out a hand-to-mouth existence and do everything within their power to help their mother struggle onward. Somehow or other their father felt that he could solve everything by turning his back on reality and his family. There is also the orphaned family of six children, making their homes with older relatives. Here the eldest—a man of 14—is preparing to take up the slack for his brothers and sisters by "learning a trade" over weekends, or whenever free time permits.

In another corner of Princeton a devoted mother and her six youngsters, who over the years have learned that love and sacrifices can counterbalance bare poverty, are confronted with a separation requiring skilled guidance. The youngest, nine-year old Gloria, adored by her brothers and sisters and born shortly after her father had left home, has been recommended for institutional care. Finding it increasingly difficult to cope with school, particularly with memory problems, and frequently picked on by playmates, she runs into the house, brings out her few battered toys and gives them away so that "the others won't hurt me any more."

And our forgotten few would include a sad-faced 10-year old, who has become dismayingly quiet since his father's death and has recently started twitching his head to the right whenever he talks; three tots, ranging from one to four, whose widowed mother's one concern is "food, safety and a little happiness for us all"; a beguiling four-year old girl who keeps telling her hard-pressed mother, "I will take care of Johnny", her crippled five-year old brother now in his second year of special schooling away from home; and six-year old Chris, the lone child in a household where his mother has courageously taken over the bread-winner's role from a paralyzed father.

Amount needed: upwards of $2,000 to enable the Family Service Agency and its allied services to extend to these citizens-of-tomorrow the specialized assistance and counseling that will help guide them through their years of bewilderment and will ultimately mean the difference between misery and hope, between apathy and faith in the things that count, especially at Christmas.

THIS APPEAL IS MADE ONLY IN TOWN TOPICS. THERE WILL BE NO OTHER SOLICITATION OF ANY KIND AND NO ONE BUT YOU, THE NEIGHBORS OF THESE "FORGOTTEN FEW", WILL EVER KNOW WHETHER OR NOT YOU PASS IT BY.

Checks should be made payable to The Town Topics Christmas Fund and mailed to TOWN TOPICS, Post Office Box 664, Princeton.

READY, AS ALWAYS

Santa to Start "Work" Monday. Ten years ago this fall, Henry Schultz walked into The Exchange, a shop then at 164 Nassau Street which stocked toys, and began to talk about children. Elderly and a bachelor, there was no special reason for Mr. Schultz to feel particularly close to the youngest set—except perhaps that he has always been young at heart.

With Christmas approaching it followed in natural fashion that some means be found for casting the somewhat wistful Henry Schultz in a Santa Claus role. Because he was then gradually losing his sight, arrangements were made for Henry Schultz to become Santa Claus Schultz over the telephone. "Just let the children know what number to call," he said. "I'll do the rest."

For the past decade, Santa Claus has been "doing the rest." Provided each December with a telephone over which he talks steadily for three hours every day to his constantly-increasing public, he never tires of answering one small voice after another (generally manages to urge good behavior in between listening to endless requests.)

Long since totally blind, Henry Schultz was seriously ill last summer for the first time in years,

TEN-YEAR-OLD SANTA: Henry Schultz, who's been a telephone Santa Claus to young Princetonians for a full decade, is ready to talk to them again. See below for time and number.

would not have been able to fill his favorite role had Christmas come six months ago. But good fortune, and the eagerness with which he waits for the two weeks in the year that mean most to him, brought full recovery.

By now far more of a tradition than a "community service," Santa Claus has been a part of the Christmas scene each year through the cooperation of TOWN TOPICS and numerous Princeton merchants. Beginning Monday from 3 to 6, and each afternoon daily thereafter through Christmas Eve, those who are at an age who know that the reindeer will come whether there is snow or not may talk to Santa Claus at WAlnut 4-3375.

POLITICAL REPORT

Battle Lines Taking Shape. Months before the 1960 presidential conventions, and at a time when most Princetonians are turning their thoughts to the fast-approaching Christmas season, three probable entries in the forthcoming political races began to make headlines in New Jersey.

Item: The probability developed that next spring will see a primary battle between Vice-President Nixon and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Because New Jersey's April 19 balloting will be the first held in any heavily-populated eastern State, a contest between the only two Republicans in the running would attract nation-wide attention.

Item: While Governor Meyner has never actually tossed his hat in the ring, neither has he reached out to retrieve it when someone else has plucked it off his head and thrown it in for him. This week, his chief political aide became the latest to do so, and the Governor let it sit next to those of Messrs. Kennedy, Symington, Humphrey — and Adlai Stevenson.

In Washington, Vice-President Nixon received a five-man delegation of New Jersey Republicans, headed by GOP State Chairman Charles R. Erdman Jr. of Princeton. Discussion centered about New Jersey's primary law, of the tradition that normally sends an uncommitted delegation to the national convention, and of the opportunity offered a presidential aspirant for backing specific delegate candidates. The latter procedure binds the delegates on arrival at the convention until released, and is considered risky primary skirmishing.

Dr. Erdman was quoted to the effect that "as of today, I don't think there is any question but that a majority of New Jersey Republicans want Nixon." This week, GOP Senator Clifford Case (who faces a battle for re-election from the conservative element of his party) agreed that the organized Republican vote is largely behind the vice-president.

The State's 38 convention votes represent a sizeable chunk of recognition for any candidate who would be off and running early. Nixon is — Rockefeller must soon if he hopes to keep the affair from developing into a one-man derby. New Jersey, with a primary deadline of March 10, appears likely to provide the track.

ROUND-UP

Effective on Tuesday, telephones with the WAlnut exchange may call Hopewell and Monmouth Junction numbers without paying a toll. . . .previous charges have been ten cents initially and five cents for each five-minute period thereafter. . . .the change is one of 90 such that will go into effect next week throughout the State, and was accepted by N.J. Bell Telephone Co. at the request of the Public Utility Commission to offset in partial fashion the rate increase for telephone service granted in 1957.

Gifts to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund (see cover) may be left at its 4 Mercer Street office or at Hinkson's, 74 Nassau, in addition to being sent through the mail. . . .the annual Christmas party given by the undergraduate Orange Key Society for all faculty children will be held Tuesday from 7 to 8:15 p.m. in the Student Center. . . .James Hatch, Princeton junior, will appear as Santa Claus. . . .others who'd like the jolly old elf to brighten a Christmas gathering may refer to the "Part-Time Santa has costume, will travel" ad in the classified section (pages 35 to 47.)

While some public apathy dotted Monday's "take cover" during the state-wide alert from 1:30 to 1:40, Civil Defense Director Geoffrey Sage was generally satisfied. . . "public cooperation was satisfactory, if not 100 percent," he reported, adding that "much must be done to overcome public apathy, possibley the arrest of one or more people who refuse to take cover as an example to others of a similar frame of mind."

Miscellaneous minor thefts, possibly the work of juveniles, continue to appear on police records . . . .Robert Nemes, proprietor of the Gulf Station at 264 Nassau Street, reported the theft of $9 from his cash register Friday night. . . .a pane of glass was broken in the rear window to gain entry. . . .Graduate student John Cale lost all four hub caps from his car, parked near the Graduate College.

Township Engeer Calvin Schofield got four hours' sleep Monday night, leaving a Planning Board meeting that lasted until 12:30 a.m. and arising at 4:45 to supervise snow clearance on the municipality's roads. . . .a crew of ten worked hard in the pre-dawn hours, sanding and salting intersections to aid commuters and school buses before the sun got around to helping out.

Monday's snow, first that was measurable this season, fell two days earlier than the first to mark the winter of 1958-59, which arrived on December 9 last year. . . the Trenton Weather Bureau reported only about an inch but some sections of Princeton had nearly three.

Township dog owners may purchase licenses for their pets at $2.25 between now and January 31. . . .all dogs seven months and older must have licenses, and must have been inoculated for rabies at either the May or October clinics this year. . . .the municipality has records for all dogs shot then; owners who had veterinarians inoculate their pets privately must show proof on purchasing the license.

In response to the appeal made here last week by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for those willing to answer letters children at the N.J. Neuro-Psychiatric Institute had written to Santa Claus, between 50 and 60 replies were received within 24 hours. . . .the JayCees are most appreciative for all the warm-hearted help being provided.

Chapter III in the debate over whether Princeton should have a volunteer or professional fire department appears in a letter to Mailbox on page 26. . . .those interested in joining the new South Brunswick Township String Band are invited to attend rehearsals any Monday night at 8 in the Cambridge School, Kendall Park . . . .New Jersey's population has risen 20 percent in the last eight years, is now estimated at 5,799,000 by the U.S. Census Bureau. . . Princeton's was 17,637 in 1950, might top 24,000 next year, a figure that would about double the rate of increase for the State as a whole.

RHUBARB AT BOROUGH HALL

Promotions Deferred. Tuesday evening's session of Mayor and Council, at which it was previously assumed that Mayor Male would advance two members of the Borough Police Department to the grades of lieutenant and sergeant on the recommendation of the Police Examining Board, produced the best "Borough Family" rhubarb of the past 15 years.

Nearly an hour before Police Commissioner Coyle presented the Examining Board's strong recommendations for promotion (Sgt. Peter J. McCrohan to Lieutenant and Patrolman James M. Kopliner to Sergeant), the Borough Mayor ruled that any promotions would be delayed until dissatisfied members of the police force had an opportunity to meet again with the Examining Board, of which Mr. Male was a member.

Preceding the Mayor's ruling on "deferred promotions," the sparse attendance was exposed to a half-hour of acrimonious discussion during which—by direct questions and implications — Orren Jack Turner, defeated mayoralty candidate, Police Sgt. Robert J. Anderson and Patrolman Robert B. McAvenia challenged the fairness of the examining techniques and procedures.

The upshot of the meeting was that the five-member Examining Board, consisting of the Mayor, Councilman Coyle, Redding and Walker and consultant Dean Donal E. J. MacNamara, will convene with the protesting police contingent, including Patrolmen Joseph D. Hagadorn, Arthur F. Gallant and Stanley L. Donald, as well as Anderson and McAvenia.

Sitting with the Board, that will be convened at the earliest possible date, will be Finance Chairman Richard A. Lester, Princeton University economist, whose presence was requested by Sgt. Anderson as "an expert in examinations," and Police Chief Raymond F. Mondone, whose recent illness made it impossible for him to participate in last week's oral examinations.

The paradox presented by the recently completed examinations, which prompted Patrolman Hagadorn to warn Councilman Coyle "to look into the morale of the Police Department," is that they marked the first time since the establishment of the Police Department in 1922 that the Borough has conducted examinations on a "merit system" as opposed to arbitrary appointment without examinations of any kind.

On November 7, 14 members of the Department took the two-hour written examination, prepared and graded by the New York Institute of Criminology. Of this number, seven qualified for last Wednesday's oral examinations, with each of the seven spending a half hour with the Examining Board. Out of seven, following some six hours of deliberation, the Board recommended Sgt. McCrohan and Patrolman Kopliner for promotion.

TRAFFIC AND PARKING

Constructive Action. In addition to confirming James Pace, 79 Prospect Avenue, as Borough Fire Chief for 1960, the Council passed on first reading amendments to ordinances modifying traffic flow and parking regulations in congested areas of the Borough. Among the points that will be discussed at public hearings on December 29 will be the following:

- Elimination of all parking meters on Washington Road.
- Banning all U-Turns on any part of Nassau Street.
- Installation of two-hour meters on William Street.
- Installation of 30-minute meters on South Tulane Street.
- New rates for the University Place Parking Yard: east side (near University Place) all-day parking at 5c per hour and west side 2-hour parking.
- More stringent "standing" regulations in proximity of Princeton University Store on University Place.
- Installation of two-hour meters on Witherspoon Street, from Green to McLean Streets.

BOROUGH MISCELLANY

Urban Renewal. In a rambling dissertation, prompted by a question from Councilman Walker, Mayor Male reported that the Borough is continuing to explore possible public housing sites with the Township and expressed the opinion that Urban Renewal is moving steadily forward . . . In inspecting the Prospect Apartments, 120 Prospect, Fire Chief-elect Pace found the electrical wiring in the basement "the worst I have ever seen."

A bill recently signed by Governor Meyner, according to Mayor Male, will make "several thousand dollars" available to the Borough Library in 1960 . . . Washington Road, the scene of two fatal accidents in recent years, will be studied anew by the Traffic Safety Committee.

SNOW CAUSES ACCIDENTS

Stationed Wagon Is Wrecked. Princeton's first snow of the season on Monday was the cause of a pair of accidents in the Borough and Township. In the more serious crash, a station wagon owned by Hill's Market and driven by Edgar Riddick, 20, of 121 Birch Avenue, skidded into a culvert on Mercer Street near the Battlefield at 2:40 p.m.

Vegetables were scattered along the roadway and the vehicle was damaged beyond repair, but Mr. Riddick was uninjured. In the other accident, Mrs. Henry N. Russell, 78, was blinded by the snow and bumped a truck driven by Bernardino Toto, 36, 27 Pine Street, at the foot of University Place. She suffered a slight scratch on her nose.

In other accidents, Borough Patrolman Richard J. Fonlcoro, 29, 21 Humbert Avenue, was pulling out of the Tiger Bus garage on Witherspoon Street Friday afternoon when he struck a car driven by Clarice Pretlow, 50, 292 Witherspoon. There were no injuries. Township police said Mr. Fanicaro's vision was obstructed by cars parked in the adjoining Shelton Motors lot.

Cars driven by Harold Hinkson Sr., 64, 222 Mount Lucas Road, and Harold G. Leigh of Minneapolis sideswiped on Route 206 near Cherry Valley Road on Saturday evening. Neither was injured, but the two men filed cross-complaints with Township police.

OBJECTION!

Neighbors Protest Subdivision. A petition signed by 21 persons was presented to the Township Planning Board Monday night as a protest against a six-lot subdivision planned by Princeton Construction for an area of about

Going Up!

Building permits as well as buildings will go up in Princeton Township if Township Committee passes the new building code that will be introduced Monday night.

At present, the Township reports it loses money on building permits. The charge is $5 for the first thousand and $2 for every thousand thereafter. Under the new ordinance, the fee will be $4 per thousand — about twice as much as before.

This year so far, 240 new residential units have produced $10,615 in building permits, which doesn't break even. The time required for checking periodically on each new structure, the paper work in clerk's and building inspector's offices and the possibility that the newly-organized inspector's office will require equipment and clerical assistance — all have combined to bring Township Committee to the realization that more must be charged for permits.

three acres between Riverside Drive and Lake Carnegie west of Adams Drive. "Objection is vigorously made," the petition stated and many of its signers were present on Monday night to give vocal as well as written objection to their opinions.

The substance of the protests is that the development as planned would affect property values in the area ("degrading" is the word used by one protestant) because the thickly-wooded area would have to be cleared before houses could be built; because some lots may have been laid out with less than the required frontage, and because the position of an access road from Riverside would mean that one property owner on Adams Drive would have roads on three sides of his lot. Action on the plan was withheld until the January 4 meeting of the Planning Board.

Tenacre Foundation's proposed geriatric units came before the Planning Board which had been asked by the Zoning Board for recommendations. (The Christian Science rest home has plans for 21 units housing elderly guests, the units to be set back on the property, a considerable distance from The Great Road.)

J. Burwell Harrison, director of Tennere, expressed concern about the route to be taken by the realigned Grent Road. Township Engineer Calvin Schnfield has said that if the road were built where Tenacre would like to have it built, it would contain a 17 percent grade. The Planning Board recommended that the relocation of the road be worked out in cooperative discussions between Tenacre and the Township. Tenacre must now go back to the Zoning Board with its plnns.

The Planning Board also recommended that, should Tenacre cease to exist, the property should not again be used for similar purposes because of the high population density in the rest home. Tenacre lies in a two-acre zone.

The Board approved the revised preliminary plans of part of the Brookstone development off Rosedale Road. The developer has produced a sewer plan which will take care of his houses and of some others already built along Rosedale.

William Wilson, president of the Township Board of Education, sent the Planning Board a copy of the letter he wrote to Princeton Country Estates, declining the developer's offer of property for a school off Herrontown Rond. Mr. Wilson said that there would be no need for a school in that orea for about 10 years, but that the School Board might be interested in re-opening the matter of aequiring property at some future time.

DEER HUNTER KILLED

In Hopewell Township. A 37-year-old deer hunter was shot and killed instantly, apparently by a member of his own hunting party, in Hopewell Township on Monday, the first day of the shotgun deer season. Victim was William Welch of Auduhon, whose son was in the party of 15.

Mr. Welch was killed on the farm of Ralph P. Smith on the Woodmonsa Road near Harbourton as he crouched to clean a dend deer. His body was taken to the Blackwell Funeral Home in Hopewell to await an autopsy by Dr. Leonerd M. Berry of Princeton, deputy county physicion.

MORE THAN LAST YEAR

Fund Already Exceeds '58 Take. Princeton's United Community Fund reported this week a total of $176,800, which is $2,150 more than the Fund raised in its 1958 campaign. The goal for this year is $212,000.

In making his report, John M. Reeder, campaign chairman for this year, announced that further returns of about $25,000 are expected, leaving about $10,500 in new contributions which must be forthcoming if the Fund is to meet its goal.

The Research Division now has 2031 subscriptions for a total of $34,868: 669 subscribers and $8,322

Although early December has produced snows that last, most of them at this time of year are of the hit and run variety. Monday brought a couple of inches, but not enough for sleds or snow men.

The temperature dipped, too, and will stay around the freezing point each night, with the thermometer unlikely to move above the 40's now for quite a spell. The weekend should be a dry one, pleasantly chill, and will also serve to bring Christmas just that much closer.

SIX FOOT TWO, EYES OF BLUE: The Triangle Club's traditional kick-line rehearses the can-can takeoff which will open Act II of the club's 1959 production, "Breakfast in Bedlam," a 22-sketch revue. The club's annual tour will begin with performances at McCarter Theatre at 8:30 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and a matinee at 2:30 on Saturday. One dancer, junior Bob Schweizer (fifth from left), loses one of his king-size high-heeled shoes on the kick.

News Of The THEATRES

TRIANGLE TO OPEN

Seats Still Available. The Princeton University Triangle Club's 68th production, "Breakfast in Bedlam," a 22-sketch revue, will open at McCarter Theatre with performances this Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 and Saturday afternoon at 2:30. While the Saturday night show is sold out except for single tickets and some mezzanine seats, good seats for the other performances are available at the University Store and the McCarter boxoffice.

The show, written by J. Vinton Lawrennce '60, the club's president, with music by Clark Gesner '60, the vice-president, features a cast of 20 and a 14-piece orchestra conducted by Mr. Gesner. The stage crew numbers 12 persons.

Director Milton Lyon and choreographer Peter Hamilton, who have guided the last four Triangle shows, will again be in charge. The 55-man touring company will travel 3,000 miles to give 20 performances in 14 cities before an expected total audience of 25,000. Cities to be visited include St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Richmond and New York.

Sketches, some of which were written by Mr. Gesner and Calvin Fentress '60, in addition to Mr. Lawrence, poke fun at modern drinking habits, elephant hunting, airplane travel, folk singing, Radio City Music Hall spectaculars and the Moiseyev Ballet, among other subjects. Seventeen original songs are included.

FINAL DATES LISTED

For O'Casey Play. The final two performances of the Community Players' production of Sean O'Casey's "I Knock at the Door" will be presented at 8:30 this Friday and Saturday at the Alexander Street Playmill.

John Becker directed the performance. Cast members include Tirzah Berthoff, Montgomery Davis, Frances Keene, Reed Armstrong, Jane and Foster Andrews, John Stiles, Katherine Post and Stanley Garber. Tickets will be available at the door.

Tryouts Scheduled. The Players have announced that tryouts will be held Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. for a mystery drama scheduled for late January presentation.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged," by Emlyn Williams, is the production selected to follow the current "I Knock at the Door." Constance Loux, a new Players member, will direct. She has staged plays for summer stock theatres, community and church groups and directed a repertory company in Albany. All interested are welcome to take part in the tryouts at the Alexander Street Playmill.

Thursday in Murray Theatre from 4:30 to 6 and from 7:30 to 9. Additional tryouts will be held this Sunday from 7 to 8.

The show will be Luigi Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author." The play, which contains elements of both comedy and tragedy, has eleven male and six female roles. Dale W. Bell will be director.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Wreck of the Mary Deare (December 9-15), in CinemaScope and color, is an entertaining combination of sea story and murder mystery which is considerably aided by a commanding and complex performance by the ever-improving Gary Cooper, who hardly says "Yup" at all in this one. Less impressive is his co-star, Charlton Heston, who is nonetheless highly competent. The fine supporting cast, mostly British, includes Michael Redgrave, Cecil Parker, Virginia McKenna and Emlyn Williams, who entranced audiences at McCarter last year.

The plot, which seems a bit on the complicated side from time to time, open spectacularly with a collision at sea between the Sea Witch, a salvage ship of which Heston is co-owner, and the Mary Deare, a freighter which at first seems to have been deserted by her captain and crew. Boarding the Mary Deare, Heston finds a lone man, the pugnacious, bloody Cooper, who claims to be the captain and tells of the crew's alleged mutiny against him. While the camera is poking around the craft, we are treated to a view of a corpse in the coel bin; this intelligence, however, is kept from Heston, who nonetheless harbors some doubts concerning the validity of Cooper's story.

It soon becomes apparent that Cooper is bent on wrecking the Mary Deare. Since he failed to accomplish this purpose in the collision, he purposely runs her into the rocks, but, as the fates and scriptwriters would have it, the ship miraculously settles in one piece. An inquiry is begun into the facts of the crew's disappearance, and one of the star witnesses is Miss McKenna, daughter of the real captain, whose feelings toward Cooper are plainly ambivalent. Events are kept moving at an engrossing pace by Michael Anderson's intelligent direction. Location scenes were filmed in London, Southempton and the English Channel.

Career (December 16-22). Solipsism, the belief that the self is the only existent thing, has doubtless been one of the attributes of many threatrical people since time immemorial; rarely if ever, however, has it been built into the positive virtue which Hollywood has attempted to make of it in its apparently endless chain of self-glorifying confession films. On principle we are generally against outside censorship in any form, but it might be good self-policing practice for the studios to declare a five-year moratorium on pictures set in or near theatres and in which actors, actresses, directors, producers or stagehands have more than incidental roles.

It's not that the theatre cannot be interesting (although it is probably never as fascinating as its practitioners think it is), but the net result of the show-biz epics is a kind of art-imitating-art which is in many ways no more interesting than the shoptalk of most other professions.

The above thoughts come to mind strongly in connection with "Career," billed as Producer Hal Wallis' finest effort in 15 years and starring Dean Martin, Anthony Franciosa, Shirley MacLaine and Carolyn Jones. Franciosa is a dedicated young actor who learns, from cynical producer Martin, wealthy dipsomaniac MacLaine and agent Jones that talent isn't enough to reach the top. This is, unhappily, no doubt true, but it's neither conceived nor executed very originally. On the plus side, all four principals are, as usual, highly competent and persuasive, Martin, especially, turning in one of the best performances of his, pardon the expression, career.

THE GARDEN

The Man Upstairs (December 11 12) is a taut, suspenseful British film, the success of which must be largely credited to Director Don Chaffey. The stars are Richard Attenborough, well-cast in the title role, Bernard Lee, Donald Houston and Dorothy Alison.

The tight and direct plot recounts the emotional reactions of a group of apartment house residents as a man on the top floor becomes suddenly and violently deranged during the night. The chief conflict arises between Lee, the belligerant police inspector who sees force as the only way to get the man out of his locked room, and Houston, a mental welfare officer who is aware of the psychological complexities involved and wants to employ less drastic measures.

It eventually develops that Attenborough is a scientist and feels responsible for a recent laboratory accident which took the life of a colleague. The film presents a broad and fascinating panorama of the building occupants, including the timid man who called the police when his efforts to assist Attenborough were rebuffed with a blow, and Miss Alison, a young housewife who wants to help and is convinced Attenborough is harmless. Recommended.

To Have and Have Not (December 14), a 1954 product, is an Ernest Hemingway story starring Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall. The peculiar, rough-edged attractiveness of this pair, combined with the script's somewhat adulterated Hemingway, makes it a film of some value. Walter Brennan is featured in the cast.

The Roof (December 15-19) is the latest effort by Vittorio De Sica and Cesare Zavattini, director and writer, respectively, of "The Bicycle Thief" and "Shoe Shine," and let it be said at the outset that it maintains the high standards of its predecessors. "The Roof" is a little less fatalistic than "The Bicycle Thief," in particular, and a quasi-happy ending has been provided.

IT'S NEW To Us

ON THE HOUSE

Under Your Roof-Tree. We were in one of the town's gayest shops, a place crowded with the brightness and glitter of Christmas. Into the shop came a mother with a very small child, a little snow-suited girl as fat and bright as a Christmas candle. "This piece," said mother to child, "is full of the prettiest things in the whole world, AND THEY ALL BREAK!"

This column, fourth in our series of five, is devoted to gifts for the house and some of them are indeed very fragile: Gourmet's Orrefors crystal, Town Shop's exquisite pink alabaster hand with its curving fingers, Schwartz Furniture's "Collection Franchise" lamp with its French bronze figurine base, the milk-white hobnail glassware at Kingston's Village Watchmaker, and the magnificently embroidered sheets at Stone and and Ferkouh—much too fine for a guest; use them for the dearest member of your family.

Star on Top. For Christmas trimmings, look over the selection of gift wrappings at Cummins: 38 inches of gold paper for $2.95, 18 inches of a shimmery red gold for the same price, and gift papers with gold, frankincense and myrrh in heavy profusion.

Gold angels in this shop have concealed snap clothes pins on their backs, so that you can string them up anywhere. A one-inch gold paper cone has an angel head on top. There's a brass tree from Sweden with walnut candle holders and seven twisted red candles—$5.

For a Christmas coffee-table, Cummins has Swedish match-boxes with roguish carollers and musicians in primary colors. Another set has birds.

Out in Hopewell, you'll find unusual Christmas decorations at Allen's Flower Shop on West Broad Street near Rorer's. Here are wreaths, table decorations and set pieces made of wood, unorthodox ways to make handsome holiday decorations for the modern home.

Laurel roots, gathered by Mr. Allen himself, will start you off on your own Christmas scheming.

Can't Do Without . . .

Every year when we shop for Christmas, we find things that are so useful, so exquisitely aesthetic or so ingeniously contrived that we wonder how we have lived without them. We present herewith the 1959 list of these treasures, so that you can take your pick.

Tiger Auto has a genu-wine fur steering wheel cover for $2.98. It's black mouton, with leather backing. See, maw? No driving gloves.

Princeton Gourmet has a pocket pepper grinder for men. Beautifully made out of walnut, oiled and smoothed to a satin grain, it's only as big as a small match-box.

Little Gallery has a nice big lithograph of General Ulysses S. Grant in one of his sober moods. Hang it over your—well, why not give it to a Civil War buff? He'll never fight Chancellorsville for you again.

Silver Shop has a large mug (in Belleek, no less) decorated with the most aggressive orange tiger you ever saw, grinning wickedly with pointed eyes that follow you wherever you go. Gilt handle—on mug, not tiger—gilt base.

Or you can pick up ready-made arrangements, relying on the Allen's creative imagination.

Rosette Pennington has one-of-a kind wreaths using dark components like black raspberries, deep red cherries and olive green leaves. But things get brighter when you light Rosette's candle buried in a six-inch spangled goblet. Artificial wreaths, crusty with red berries, are $5.50 and $6.50.

Light Within. Religious candles, hard to find sometimes, are at Princeton Decorating on Palmer Square. We saw a lovely madonna and child, recessed in a plain candle. Creches from Germany, in this shop, have realistically detailed features, with faces that are particularly attractive and well done.

Princeton Decorating likes best its artificial mistletoe in a green basket. Just wash it off and use it again, year after year. (Yes, grandmother, I remember grandfather and last year's mistletoe all too well. Perhaps we don't really need the kind that keeps, year after year.)

Miniature rose trees bloom at Gene Seal. Fake, of course, but charming in Christmas red or pink. Cut green, laurel ropes, princess pine, balsam, red pine, hemlock, holly and wreaths at this floral shop. Center-pieces, too, if you give the shop a week's notice.

Christmas begonias, Jerusalem cherry, and Christmas corsages with red carnations and bells—these are at Princeton Garden Center at the Shopping Center. (Corsages here are real, you know.)

The Center has laurel, balsam, pine, long-needle pine, holly and mistletoe and table decorations, if you allow three or four days. This florist shop also suggests cemetery blankets and pillows at Christmas time.

Town Shop builds a glittery compote out of gold and silver pineapples, roses and ferns. One is tall as a candlelabra, others are small. A matching gold and silver wreath encircles your candles. Gourmet has 30-inch trees made of wads of colored tissue paper ($4.60).

For Christmas entertaining, Farkouh, Clayton's and Stone have Christmas cloths painted with gold snowflakes, green wreaths or hollyberries. Stone presents you in a white organdy apron trimmed with red Christmas figures, or a green felt apron with triangle tree pockets; Farkouh has a red organdy apron with silver rick-rack (black organdy, for New Year's Eve!)

Sopps sends Gourmet coasters that are Christmas tree balls. Cocktail napkins have the motif to match.

Handkerchiefs with red holly and green leaves (or pastel ornaments, as at Clayton's) pop out of every Christmas pocket. Clayton's, Stone, Farkouh and Cummins all have them.

To Warm Your Hearth. A gift for somebody's house might be a gift for her hearth: Nassau Interiors' fireplace set ($24.95) with black trident, brush and triangular shovel pendant from a black rack has handles which are 14-inch white cylinders, like candles. Gourmet's fireplace set comes from Dansk at $29.95. It starts from an 18-inch black iron brace and holds double-pronged poker, wedgie shovel and darkly bristled brush.

Princeton Decorating on Palmer Square has a fireplace screen made especially for them out of smilax and roses. All washable.

A Christmas Touch from the Orient

The Oriental east is everywhere this Christmas and if your gift doesn't say "Made in Hong Kong" or "Made in Japan," you might as well take it back.

At Kung Ping, naturally enough, you'll find a magnificent gold screen from Japan with a single peach (apple? plum?) bough against the gold. Home furnishings on Witherspoon Street, will display for two weeks an opulent collection of silk rugs from Iran, gathered by Mr. Bahadurian himself. Some are very old and very rare; most of them can be ordered.

Authentic reproductions of Oriental objects d'art are available in quantity: Nassau Interiors has some splendid horses, almost two feet high, the color and texture of the original clay. Princeton Decorating on Palmer Square has two Oriental men in softly colored robes, their lineaments copied faithfully from museum originals.

At the Town Shop on Palmer Square, desk accessories have been covered with prints from India and Japan. There are date books, oval waste baskets and letter holders covered with richly luminous prints, then lacquered for protection.

And to top it all—the Princeton Music Center and the music department of the University Store have Japanese transister radios!

Farkough will provide you with an Oriental rug from Persia, starting at $19.50 for a 4x7 and you know how far up you can go from there. Colonial hook rugs are also on the Farkouth floor.

Home Decor in the Shopping Center has those ridiculously endearing acrilan rugs made for a child's room. There's a white snowman, a teddy-bear, a kitty and a clown, all $9.98, all about four feet across. (A bear with a real stuffed head is $10.98).

Cabincraft rugs from Home Decor are designed just like the very modern ones you see for living-room. These will make your bathroom look like a Mondrian painting.

Which reminds us that Home Furnishings, on Witherspoon Street, has decided to put top and bottom frames on some handsome modern fabrics, and if you know the tastes of your friends, these are splendid Christmas gifts.

Small furniture is always welcome at Christmas, even when it gets in the way of the Christmas tree. Gourmet has a Holable for $59.50 with walnut handles and removable walnut tray under the hot unit.

Nassau Interiors has luggage racks which will hold anything from a wallet to a trunk, and sets of four snack tables which will hold food and or drink but probably not guests, even though the tops are micarta.

Speaking of Furniture. In the shopping column for November 19, the name of the shop that has the 1780 pine Governor Winthrop desk was inadvertently omitted. It's Princeton Decorating.

Schwartz Furniture, Carroll Place, New Brunswick, suggests ladies' chairs for Christmas and this makes sense, because the store has some beautiful ones: a French chair with half - upholstered, half bare arms, tapestry covering and graceful legs; a chair with deeply tufted back and seat in dark green velvet with antique ivory frame; an armless upholstered chair done in gold, grey and white trapunto print. (Choice of fabrics on all these. (A chintz boudoir chair has its own curving ottoman for shopper's feet.

Ladies' chairs at Ivy Manor, in the Princeton Shopping Center, are probably old-fashioned mahogany rockets with tufted tapestry upholstery ($69). Men's chairs are Barca loungers, club style, with a back that elongates as the foot-rest is raised. Naughahyde, in six colors, $210. Reclining chairs, generally, in this store are $55 up.

A charming slipper rocker, mahogany and tapestry, is $29.50, and a boudoir chair in plastic is so realistically chintzy that it even has a ruffled skirt: $32.50. We saw a chair in yellow and green which would be as sunny as an A-report card in a little girl's room.

Downstairs, you can use Ivy Manor's deep - tufted hassock bench in black with four slender black legs, for $24.50. Matching stool is $11.95. If you live in a Cape Cod, you'll welcome a Boston rocker in maple or cherry from Schwartz, or in black with gold from Ivy Manor. Manning's

The talented DeSica, who has virtually turned the Garden into his private projection room over the last few weeks, has again spurned professional actors and the cast is furnished with just-folks in tee-shirts and dirty shoes. The advisability of this policy is debatable. It would seem, since some of the performances show distracting rough edges despite their unquestionable humanness.

The film deals with the housing problem in Rome through the eyes of a young couple who are forced to stay with in-laws but have a burning and natural desire for privacy. According to Roman law, they can obtain squatter's rights to a vacant lot if they can in one night construct a small building and put a roof on it. The efforts of the newlyweds and the sympathetic help of their friends and acquaintances are handled sympathetically and interestingly and DeSica wisely steers clear of social-message preaching and lets his story speak for itself. over last year. All employees of the University Store have given to the Fund, and this 100 percent record has brought the Fund $315, for an increase of 52 percent. The company gift of $275 brings the total to $500.

Princeton University reports 834 subscriptions totaling $16,873 and campaign officials expect this to rise by about $5,000. Gifts from physicians and dentists total 23, for $1,195. This is $700 short of last year's total.

In other reports, the Fund announced: 145 staff members of the Borough Public Schools, $1,873, 30 percent increase; 37 staff members of the Township Schools, $530, 10 percent increase; Westminster Choir College, 50 subscribers, $662.50, 16 percent increase; Neighborhood Division, $21,465 from 1644 subscribers.

FIRE GUTS DAFNER HOME

On River Road, Belle Mead. Fire broke out in the home of Bernard Dafner on River Road, Belle Mead, Sunday morning, shortly before 6:30 while Mr. and Mrs. Dafner and their nine-year-old son were eating breakfast in the kitchen. The couple saw flames leaping up the side of the house from the kitchen window. A neighbor, living about a quarter of a mile away, also saw the fire and reported it to the Griggstown Volunteer Fire Company, which reached the scene quickly.

Other fire companies alerted by radio were Little Rocky Hill, Franklin Park, two from Hillsboro Township and one from Montgomery Township. Eleven pieces of equipment were working on the fire by 8. Before their arrival, the Griggstown company had run out of water and was stretching hoses to the Millstone River 1400 feet away.

The ten-room house was over 75 years old, and had been rented by the Dafners with the 129-acre farm for about five years. The farm is owned by Stanley Maryanski of Glen Ridge.

The fire was reportedly caused by two bricks next to the furnace flue pipe falling into the chimney. It quickly spread upwards between the chimney and the outside of the house, and concentrated in the attic of the two-story dwelling. The firemen were unable to open the slate roof before the blaze went out of control.

Most of the furnishings and personal belongings were rescued, including a corner cupboard filled with china, none of which was broken. Directing the fire were Kenneth Herrman, chief of the Griggstown Company, and Pelham Stewart, Franklin Park chief. Donald Wallis, chief of Hillsboro Pumper No. 2, directed the pumping by walkie-talkie, and John Dixson, chief of Montgomery No. 1, was in charge of salvage. The firemen were on the scene until 2 p.m.

WHAT'S ON THE AGENDA?

For Township Committee. At its December meeting next Monday at 8:30 p.m. Township Committee will introduce a new building code based on the 1955 edition of the National Building code prepared by the Board of Fire Underwriters. Its chief provisions concern the use of new building materials not available in 1949 when the present national code was drafted.

A public hearing will be scheduled on assessments for the Valley Road sidewalks and an ordinance will be introduced to accept streets in the Maplecrest development on Walnut Lane and Dempsey Avenue.

The public hearing on the new zoning amendment, introduced on November 27, will be held next Thursday, December 17, at 8:30.

UNION WITH TRENTON?

Lawrence Will Study Idea. Residents of Princeton, accustomed to thinking of consolidation as their own peculiar and particular discussion topic, learned this week that neighboring Lawrence Township has plans to study the possibility of consolidation with Trenton.

Lawrence Township Committee decided to go along with the proposal of Committeeman Lloyd A. Carver that the Township form a committee to study the pros and cons of uniting with Trenton. Ewing and Hamilton Townships also would be involved in the consolidation. Mr. Carver will introduce his proposal formally on Wednesday by presenting a resolution to the Township committee.

"I, for one, at the present time cannot see where the Township of Lawrence would stand to gain by being annexed to the City of Trenton but I am willing to study the problem," said Mr. Carver.

Arthur Holland, mayor of Trenton, proposed earlier this year that mayors of Trenton, Lawrence, Ewing and Hamilton and the director of the Board of Freeholders meet to study ways in which mutual problems could be solved. Mr. Holland said that he would have no objection if all members of all governing bodies met together instead of mayors only.

"It's the attitude I had hoped all the municipalities involved

New Classes To Begin. Registration for the YWCA's winter term, which will begin January 4, will be open next week from 9 to 5 Monday through Friday. Evening hours are scheduled from 7 to 9 Tuesday and Thursday.

Diving and synchronized swimming for girls will be offered. Those interested should call Mrs. Malcolm Jones. The adult program, under the direction of Mrs. Howard Waxwood Jr., will continue its fall classes, including ceramics and flower arranging, if there is sufficient interest. Suggestions for other classes are welcome.

TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Of Princeton Public Library. The 50th anniversary of the founding of Princeton Public Library will be marked at an Open House Monday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. No formal program is planned, but former members of the library board as well as staff members and volunteer workers will be on hand to greet adult visitors. Because of crowded conditions, there will be no regular library service and children will not be admitted.

Tea will be served by friends of the library. These will include former board members, former librarians, representatives of service clubs and local organizations, and a representative of the Bureau of Public and School Library Service. The bureau provides Princeton Library with an interlibrary loan service and professional consulting services.

Quite a Difference!

Comparative statistics offer graphic proof of the growth of Princeton Public Library, which is about to mark its 50th anniversary.

	1910	1959
Population	6,553	23,000
Circulation	7,046 (nine mos.)	193,500
Book Stock	5,000	33,000
Hours Open	4½ daily	11 daily
Fines, Fees	$48.74	$6,100

Pictures from various eras during the library's 50 years of existence will be on display and the second volume of the publication, "Historical Highlights Series," will be distributed. This volume, also published by Lenhart & Co., is devoted to the Princeton Public Library, its history and its services.

It is hoped that many members of the Princeton community will take advantage of this opportunity to become acquainted with the library staff and to find out about the various services provided by the library. Plans are underway for formation of a Friends of the Library group and the library staff hopes that many of Monday's visitors will want to become members of the new group.

While visitors are welcome at any time, those who can come in the morning and early afternoon are asked to do so in order to avoid too much crowding in the evening.

$1,000 MORE NEEDED

By Planned Parenthood Group. The Planned Parenthood Committee of Princeton is $1,000 short of the $6,500 goal in its 1959 fund campaign, it was announced this week by Mrs. John D. Davies, campaign committee chairman. The $5,500 raised to date is $1,500 ahead of last year at this time, and it is hoped that the goal will be reached by the end of December.

Contributions are used to maintain a clinic at the committee office at 180 Nassau Street. The committee provides child spacing information, medical advise for childless couples, and a referral service in marriage counseling. Mrs. Doris Sutterley, a registered nurse, is in charge of the office, which is open from 10 to 12 during the week and on Tuesday evenings by appointment. A physician is in attendance at clinic sessions.

DRIVER HITS BIKE RACK

Result of College Prank. James G. Bennett, 25, Cranbury Road, Grover Mills, unable to stop in time, hit and demolished a bike rack that had been placed in the middle of Washington Road. The incident occurred 1:30 Sunday morning.

Mr. Bennett, turning off Nassau Street onto Washington Road, spotted the rack about 200 feet from the intersection. The bumper, fender, and body of his car were damaged. Police believe the rack had found its way to the street as the result of a college prank.

IT'S THE SEASON: Snow is the only picnicker in silent Marquand Park (top) and the only golfer on the deserted Springdale links. But elsewhere in town, snow means activity and Christmas bustle. Report from THE MAYOR

The Human Side. All of us should be concerned with the fundamental issues of housing and urban renewal contained in the reports of the 26th national conference of NAHRO, the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials. Princeton was represented by Mrs. Gloria H. Michael, a member of the Princeton Housing Authority who is also a member of NAHRO.

The conference theme was "The Human Side of Housing and Urban Renewal." Mrs. Michael reports: "The one thing that emerged most clearly from the conference was agreement that changes must be made.

"The contention was made that Federal regulations have not given enough consideration to the human side of housing and slum clearance programs. The plight of the dislocated families and of small businessmen was underscored."

Concern For People. Mrs. Michael reported the significant address delivered by Charles P. Taft, former Mayor of Cincinnati. "Mr. Taft, in a fiery and eloquent speech, denounced Federal officials for their lack of interest in the people in public housing.

"He urged the local authorities to work with the elective officials in order to put their programs through. He insisted that local agencies must gain acceptance for their plans by holding neighborhood meetings, and should utilize all such means for good public relations.

"He said that we need a positive program to help change the lives of the people who move into public housing." Mrs. Michael was able to report some discussion of scattered site housing which, though generally higher in construction cost, found that maintenance and upkeep costs were lower.

It is certainly to be hoped that the people of Princeton will take a strong interest in the problems faced in housing and urban renewal. It is, after all, an important area of the public's business.

On the Calendar. Last week's calendar was especially full: Monday's agenda session of Mayor and Council covered a multitude of borough housekeeping matters; Tuesday's study session of the Planning Board found the members wrestling seriously with the key questions that will help to shape important decisions, especially in the areas of housing, traffic flow, and the economic health of Princeton; also on Tuesday, the Mayor attended the open house at the child guidance center where, despite greatly increased professional service to Princeton, the waiting list continues to grow.

Wednesday brought the intensive oral examinations for police promotions. On Friday morning, the Mayor met with the newly elected freeholders from the various counties as part of a training workshop which included a key item on county-municipal cooperation.

On Saturday, Princeton was the site of the 2d annual dental health conference sponsored by the New Jersey State Dental Society. The Mayor, in addition to giving the traditional welcome, was the dinner speaker on the theme of the professional man's responsibility in community affairs.

Friday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" session will be held on Friday, December 11, and Friday, December 18, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Among last week's visitors: Goesta Wollin, executive director of Big Brothers of America, a movement well know to Princeton residents. Wollin, a dedicated and humble man of great insight, has no hesitancy in offering the resources of his organization without "credit line" because of a deep faith that the only important thing is service to people, not a statistical box-score for any particular group."

It's New To Us

Wayside has a child's Boston rocker and a spinning wheel, besides.

Low, from Dux. Nassau Interiors' new chair is a Dux from Sweden in oiled walnut. It has a wide, pointed oval seat, a spindle back 14 inches high and an arm-spread of 26 inches, which adds up to a low, wide occasional chair. Rug Mart's suggestion is a $150 naughahyde club chair, just like leather, in a choice of colors. Plastic chairs are $69.50 and all-leather ones are $200.

Schwartz has Drexel's Leisure Center, consisting of a drop-leaf desk with bar underneath (one thing at a time, grandmother; one thing at a time), an eight-foot-tall bookcase with rounded posts and various other mix-match components.

One of Schwartz' best pieces is the campaign chest, with square recessed brass pulls and a body of mahogany or decorated mahogany ("charcoal", they call it, but it's mahogany). These chests, together, or stacked in various ways on pedestals, are masculine and robust—just the thing a woman wants.

Mannings gives you a dry sink bar in antique green with re-strained flowers painted here and there. Also a 24-inch maple drop-leaf tea cart with drawers and tray, which would grace any small dining room.

Lane has a wide selection of cedar chests at Ivy Manor, from $49.95 up. Some have simulated drawers or louvered doors, some are modern blond mahogany, some are Colonial maple.

Kung Ping puts a glass top over the deep, almost full relief carving in a folding teak coffee table. Another teak table, with recessed carvings, stands still and does not fold.

Bibelots. Desk accessories at Town Shop come, by and large, from the boutique pages of House and Garden. An oblong marble box, with three tracings in black ink that represent a heron. . .a turtle carved from tortoise shell marble, . gold - spattered book ends and waste-basket with gold armor pieces emblazoned on the sides. an 18-inch walnut waste-basket with brass handles and brass insignia. . .olive or ruby velvet book-ends with Pegasus in sides . . . an 18-inch walnut waste-smooth as alabaster, which is what it is. . .white marble blocks, four inches each way, with a montage of 19th century weapons in color on the side.

Princeton Decorating puts all its scraps in one basket: a white basket with a felt doll perched on the rim.

The Christmas Bazaar at this shop produces gold sconces, formal or somewhat frivolous, cachepots in white with the Napoleonic bee. . .birds by Cybis. . .white pottery pouter pigeons from Italian roof-tops. . .a stack of Italian pottery fruit into which a cabbage has somehow wormed its way; the pyramid starts with a cabbage and ends with a small nut, each piece of produce brightly colored. . .a wonderful smoker's chest 14 inches long, 13 high, in dark wood with four places for pipes, tobacco drawers and probably a secret compartment for cigars. It's antique.

LaVake-Reid offers its cigarettes from a silver box. Kung Ping from a dark pewter one, square and plain with bevelled edges and a stylized bit of brass calligraphy in the center.

These pewter pieces at Kung Ping are particularly unusual and very well executed. There is an eight-sided waste-basket, a square ashtray, an oblong box which might be for cigarettes, and a round plate narrowly edged with brass. All have squared-off brass calligraphy in the center and this is the only ornament. Box collectors may also find intrigue in the square black lacquer box set on top of another box. The lid has cryptic gold lines and that's all the decoration you'll find.

Tradition. For people whose decor is quite different, Village Watchmaker in Kingston has a fine collection of Fenton hobnail milk glass. Here is a hanging ivy bowl, suspended from three brass chains and a brass bracket. It is heavy enough to hold earth and plant. Moderns are served in this shop by the varied colors in Blenko glassware, with its characteristic tear-drop motif. Look at a modern planter in glass which hangs from two leather thongs.

Lalique's frosted crystal birds at Town Shop would be nice to find, perching in one's Christmas tree. There's a pewing bull this year; better put him under the tree instead of in a branch. A smoky, ombre glass has been used for an amusing little braying donkey and a self-righteous elephant.

LaVake-Reid puts 1960 into a 2x3 inch silver calendar frame to set on one's dresser with the initialled sterling dresser set from the same year and the same shop.

Turn it On. Lamps have grown since 1958. Nassau Interiors has a 44-incher for your end table. It has a ceramic base of striated charcoal with mustard bottom, and a burlap shade. An orange pottery base, vase shaped, supports 40 inches of lamp ($16.95). Stiffel's soft brass lamp at Schwartz has a black pedestal and pocked fruitwood to match the brass. It's 40 inches, too.

London sends Manniags a four-footer with a ceramic base like a flower pot and four curving walnut pieces to encircle it. An oiled walnut tree lamp with three black cones and black lettice over the bulbs, starts from the floor, as any respectable tall lamp should.

What's On the Table? Maybe it's Williamsburg pewter from the Silver Shop: teapot with rosewood handle, pitchers with ditto, bowls, porringers, tumblers, glass-bottomed tankards, pep boots and baby cups. Or it might be a Sheffield warmer from the same Palmer Square Shop. These date to 1800. A Victorian covered vegetable dish came a little bit later. It has engravings on its eight sides and a gadroon border.

Why not the set of four fluted silver egg-cups in their little stand? Could use them for liqueurs. A Spode sugar bowl the size of a candy dish, has a unique curving lid, painted with flowers.

White hobnail at Village Watchmakers carries relish dishes, salt shakers, nut dishes in this favorite old pattern. (A 7-inch vase is $2.50, (in case your budget is hob-nailed, too). Plum glass is a new color with hobnail this year.

From Tiffany, LaVake Reid has silver salt and peppers with walnut tops so that the two pieces look just like little mushrooms ($12.50 pair). A sheet of silver, subtly curved, makes the simplest dish in town. And there is a small triple candlestick with holders shaped like calla lillies, and a ruby glass jampot with silver top which looks like an old lantern.

A Pyrex casserole nests inside an elaborate silver bowl with flowered border and floral handle. Casserole holds two quarts.

A caviar server at Gourmet ($16.50) holds an eight-ounce jar in the insert that's in the silver plated bowl. Edam cheese appears on a silver base, clasped tightly by four prongs. You slice the top off the cheese, stick into it the silver finial end there you are with a top. A four or five pound Edam will do.

That bubbly clear plastic appears this year at Town Shop with embedded flowers made of crushed blue stones and crushed amber. There is an oblong tray, a long oval tray and two sectional plates. For a hot plate, use the ten-inch (smaller one, too) circle of glass which protects a bright decoupage of flowers on gold leaf.

Final Course. After dinner, Gourmet serves demi-tasse in very tall cups, assorted colors (caramel, coffee, black, blue, etc.) Six are $5.95 and there's a matching pot, creamer and sugar, the latter with a tall straw handle. Dansk's oval tray could be an end table, if you want it to be because it's two feet long with a gallery at each end.

Cummins tosses its salad in a tavernean bowl with eight rounded sides (looks like a lotus blossom). Matching servers are shaped like shovel and trident. A condiment set in this shop has its cone-shaped white containers arranged around a seven-inch wooden base, with brass handle as a carry-all. Set is $14. Eight tear-shaped wood and cork coasters are threaded on a wooden spike for $2.95. The tray Cummins likes best to carry all these, is a light-weight laminated teak one, strong as an elephant, from Finland. There are three sizes.

Kung Ping adds a full-size coffee cup to the black lacquer and gold demi-tasse set. Salad bowls here are black lacquer with gold designs, either family size, or individual. A carving set from India sheaths knife and fork in an elaborate carved holder that means business.

For the woman who loves linen, Farkouh reminds you that the shop can produce an oval linen cloth in any color if you allow a week. Buy a luncheon-size napkin for 55 cents, or a dinner size for $125 a dozen (Alencon lace makes part of the difference.)

Reversible, adjustable bridge table covers will settle an argument: Goreni's rules are on top.

Santa, Ahoy!

You never know what some people will do after Christmas.

For those who are scooting off on a yacht, Princeton Gourmet has everything. "Port," "Starboard" and "Gelley" buckets in polyethelene, of course; port being red, starboard green and galley yellow, as you might expect.

Then you buy a series of flags to run aloft announcing the situation on board. A bat-tleaxe flag tells everybody that the wife's on board. The witch flag informs you that she's ashore. A cocktail glass speaks for itself. A flag with two sleeping bunnies, one with long eyelashes, means "do not disturb."

For people whose water is in the back yard, encased in concrete, there are swimming pool coasters in dazzling styrofoam. Each coaster, pink, orenge, blue or what have you, has its own little flag. Run it up when the glass goes down and your host will come to your aid.

Tea sets, bridge sets and luncheon sets come in every price range and color in this well-stocked linen shop.

Stone's Linen has hand-made place mat sets from $5.95 to $50. Clayton's suggests a place mat holder made of chintz and matching solid. $3.95. An Irish linen cloth in this store has an all-over basketweave design: $3 for 52-inch square, and proportionate prices up from there.

For Cooks. Gourmet has a French bean slicer made in West Germany and a recipe file of washable vinyl with gold vegetables and a linen towel which lists the names, addresses and phone numbers of every legitimate theater in New York.

Stone believes in conversation with aprons that say "What do you do in your spare time?" on one pocket, and the answer (you go look it up, grandmother) on the other. We like the one that says "Woman's Work is Never Fun."

Bar None. Gourmet's glass punch bowl and 12 cups for $39.50 will keep the wassail going and Kunk Ping's saki set in white china with whistling saki decanter and whistling cups, will keep everything humming.

LaVeke likes the four sterling liquers from Tiffany or Gorham, one set with six-inch black tray the other with silver gallery tray . . . The "glasses" are $4.25, $3.95 or $4.50 each depending on whose you choose.

Town Shop helps you keep bar with a gravy boat in silver which has a lemon squeezer protruding from the top and a pour lip to catch the seeds. Silver Shop has a pair of old cut glass pickle jars, square and sturdy, nested in a silver rack. Use them for cordiel and forget the pickles.

Orrefors has designed a fine martini pitcher from its collection of exquisite glass. It's pinched together at the top, providing thereby a grip for fingers and an ice lip. Two sizes.

Snoozes. Gifts for bath and boudoir abound at Stone's, Home Decor in the Shopping Center, Clayton's and Farkouh's. Stone sends you to sleep with a Belgian wool, velvet-bound blanket (European blankets are heavier than ours and warmer, generally, because European houses are cold.) An acrilan robe in zipper case will do fine for next yeer's Dartmouth game.

Stone's also has wool throws from the Churchill weavers in Kentucky, in solids or plaids.

A Tree for You

The Cummins Shop's favorite Christmas decoration, among all the glittery trees and spangled angels and giddy tinsel ropes, is a little plastic Christmas tree which sells for $1.

It's about ten inches high, made of green, white, silver or gold shredded plastic which catches the light as the tree moves. Looks rather like a hushy little fire tree, the way the plastic is arranged.

Cummins likes this modest tree because it is a perfect shut-in present. Trim it with one-inch balls in a wild medley of colors, tie a small package or two on its branches and take to someone who needs Christmas cheer on a bed-side table.

For a truly luxurious present, give the Swiss embroidered sheets, $27.50 and $37.50 a set, with two cases. Farkouh has similar sets in pale primrose yellow, with cut-out embroidery, $29.50.

The Farkouh prize is Callaway's towel set in linen terry, yarn dyed, in eight colors, $16.95 the set. Clayton's has hand-embroidered cut-out cases at $7.95 and $8.50 per pair. Cases for boudoir pillows, in white or pastels, make pleasant $2 gifts.

Home Decor has terry towels at your fingertips in three shades of brown, two shades of pink, three blues, three greens. There is a large and fragrant collection of bath jars, atomizers, powder boxes, and mirrors in this shop, some etched with gold, some cut like crystal, some in sophisticated ombre shades.

For a comfortable Christmas, Home Decor suggests triangular pillows for readers in bed, St. Mery's tweed blankets for people who are chilly, orange felt tick-tack-toe pillows for people between 11 and 16 and terry foam pillows for anybody who likes to soak in a hot bath tub.

Plug. Urken's marks the season by knocking 20 percent from the price of electrical appliances. There's a big Sunbeam fryer to which this happily applies, and an even bigger Sunbeam fryer which looks as though it would hold a turkey. Revere ware gets an even better deal, with 40 percent off. Paul should be alive in this hour.

Corning has a six-cup percolator to add to its white and blue hot-cold line and Urken's has the new brewer along with the casseroles. Iona makes an electric blender, and Regent makes an electric can opener and Knapp-Monarch has a new steam iron with specially designed vents.

Rorer's Hardware in Hopewell can supply you electrically, too. The Black Angus line of rotisserie, broiler and grille is available on order, with everything from a $20.95 traveller to a giant at $99.95 that will almost supplant your kitchen. Rorer's also suggests a sun lamp for people who aren't going anywhere and a GE all-transistor portable radio for people who are going everywhere.

Tiger Auto sells a Radar-lite sealed beam light for $12.40 with red blinker and an Eveready without blinker for $9.99, both for people with flat tires. Fancy mirrors for fender or body, compasses for the tempest-tossed and indoor-outdoor thermometers for people who wonder whether it's cold enough to skate, are all in Tiger's stock.

One of our favorite appliances is the baby refrigerator at the University Store. Costs $139.50

NEW DONORS SOUGHT

By Red Cross to Blood Drive. To mark its tenth anniversary of service to the community, The Princeton Blood Donor Service, sponsored by the Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross and Princeton Hospital, is launching a drive to recruit volunteer donors.

Since the inception of the service in December, 1949, more than 10,000 pints of blood, valued at more than $350,000, have been donated by volunteers as a gift to Princeton Hospital patients. In the face of an ever-increasing area population and the concomitant rise in the number of patients, the Blood Donor Service must find new volunteers if it is to continue its life-saving program.

Anyone between the ages of 18-60 (parental permission is required if under 21) who is physically able to become a volunteer is asked to come to Red Cross Headquarters, 71 University Place Saturday, between 10 and 2. New donors will register at this time. Hospital technicians will be on hand to determine the blood types of those who can enroll.

Blood Donor Drive Backed.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The entire staff of Princeton Hospital wish to express their sincere interest in, and support of, the Princeton Blood Donor Program.

We willingly acknowledge the Blood Bank as an indispensable and integral part of modern medical therapy.

The progressive increase in the need for blood parallels the continuing growth of the Princeton Hospital and the community it serves.

GUY K. DEAN, JR.
Chief of Staff

More on Volunteer System.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I have followed with interest the recent public discussion concerning the respective merits of professional versus volunteer fire-fighting units. Since I am not a taxpayer in the Princeton community, it seems likely that the comments to follow are disqualified from consideration; nevertheless, an outsider's view might possibly include a certain degree of objectivity, a virtue which seems conspicuously lacking in the replies of some citizens to the November 26th "Question of the Week."

The original letter by Mr. Tibbals appeared to be a thoughtful statement on the general concern which a conscientious person might feel toward the problem of fire protection. His key points were: (1) that maximal efficiency is necessary in responding to an alarm, and (2) that human life should be the criterion for determining potential efficiency, not the relative level of insurance rates prevalent in Princeton.

Despite the clear relevance of these issues and Mr. Tibbals' stated admiration for the motives and efforts of the local volunteers, the official local response was a letter from the "foreman-elect of Mercer Engine Co. 3" in which there appeared a claim of absolute excellence of the local fire department and the general allegation that there is no room for improvement in any way. Such excessive dogmatism and false pride are surely unjustified if the Princeton volunteers are as capable as their spokesman seems to think.

Perhaps one reason for the notable efficiency of the fire departments of New York and Philadelphia may be found in their continuous self-criticism and reappraisal of techniques, etc. Since Hamilton Township's volunteer system has been invoked to justify continuation of the Princeton system, it should be noted that some of Hamilton's units do maintain a permanent staff at the station (Rusling Hose Company, for example) so that apparatus is rolling within 30-60 seconds after an alarm is received. This contrasts markedly with the Princeton situation, and Mr. Tibbals' emphasis on the issue served only to generate dense clouds of righteously indignant smoke and heat (at the expense of any illumination) from his fellow citizens.

In summary, I am appalled thus far at the total failure of influential businessmen and local fire department representatives to grasp the moral issue originally raised by Mr. Tibbals' letter. Their reaction has clearly demonstrated instead (1) that the local fire protection system is, in fact, a "sacred cow," (2) that Princetonians are expected to confine their opinions to statements of pride in the status quo, and (3) that some local citizens are more concerned with insurance rates than the life-saving potential of a more efficient fire department.

It is not my intention to disparage the heroic efforts and general spirit of altruism of Princeton's volunteer firemen; they obviously do an excellent job in many cases, but they should be the first to recognize areas of possible improvement and be receptive to constructive criticism from local taxpayers. Their apparent intolerance of such suggestions was the factor which prompted this letter from a non-taxpayer (of Princeton) in defense of a taxpayer's motives.

Although I realize this is heresy, might I suggest that some consideration be given to the possibility of establishing a small nucleus of professional men to drive apparatus (e.g., three daily shifts of two men each at one of the large fire stations). When an alarm came in, the men on duty could respond immediately with two pieces of apparatus and the volunteers could converge on the scene of the fire. Since the first few minutes of a fire are often decisive in the ultimate outcome, having apparatus on the scene quickly is obviously of considerable importance. Many communities smaller than Princeton maintain full time drivers of fire apparatus in the station so that immediate response is available at any hour of day or night.

Perhaps others may have better alternative suggestions designed to achieve similar ends. If so, let us hope they will come forward.

Yours for better local government,

BENJAMIN D. STINSON, Ph. D.,
Visiting Fellow, Biology Department, Princeton University

PLACE: Paterson, N. J.

While parking his truck, telephone installer Henry J. Milewski noticed smoke coming from a nearby house. Jumping from the truck, he ran over to help. As he approached, he saw a woman climbing out a second floor window onto a roof. In her arms she clutched a small baby and a two-year-old child.

"Help me! Help me—my babies!" she screamed. Trapped on the roof, she was preparing to drop her children to the sidewalk 15 feet below!

"Wait! Don't drop them!" Milewski shouted, running toward the building. But the woman let the two-year-old slip from her arms. His arms outstretched, Milewski was able to catch the child.

He placed him on the sidewalk and ran to get a ladder from his truck.

With words of encouragement, he reassured the woman, set up the ladder and brought the baby safely down.

The woman followed. "Hold on tight," Milewski instructed the woman. As she reached the ground, she fainted.

Bystanders carried her into a nearby store while Milewski looked after her children. After she recovered, he brought the mother and children to the home of relatives to be cared for.

DATE: December 19, 1958
TIME: 11:30 a. m.
PLACE: Port Elizabeth, N. J.

On the same day, Roger C. Hoffman, a splicer's helper, working on a pole in Port Elizabeth, suddenly heard cries of "Help!"

Looking across the street, he saw smoke pouring from the windows of a small house. He quickly climbed down the pole and ran over to the house.

"Don't go in there!" warned bystanders.

Ignoring the warning, Hoffman raced into the smoke and flames, and fought his way inside.

He found an elderly man trapped in a corner of the house. The man, his leg in a cast, was helpless to flee the blaze.

In his fear, the man held tightly to a bed. Hoffman had to slap his arm free to break the man's grip. He then dragged the injured man through the blaze to safety.

Hoffman called the Port Elizabeth Fire Department. But, before the fire could be put out, the house had been destroyed.

Firemen credited Hoffman with saving the injured man's life.

New Jersey Bell President, E. Hornsby Wasson, (right in photo) presents Milewski and Hoffman with the company's top honor—the Bronze Vail Medal—for their bravery and devotion to the welfare of the public. These awards bring to 87 the number of Vail Medals awarded in New Jersey Bell's history.

In Blawenburg, Van Zandt has a $5.95 corn popper that works by electricity, an Oster knife sharpener that also does scissors, and an assortment of electric frying pans (GE and Sunbeam), ateam irons and mixers.

Portable and transistor radios are at Van Zandt's and at the University Store. Tiger Auto, the Music Center on Palmer Square and at Borer's. The U. Store also has Zenith's trans-oceanic transistor with nine bands and its ears peeled for stations all over the world.

Words, Pictures, Music. We conclude our gifts for the home column with a word or two about gifts of records, books and pictures — lifetime gifts, if ever a gift could be.

The Music Center suggests William Scheide's Bach Aria group in excerpts from eight cantatas, and the Bach St. Matthew Passion in a new recording by Mogens Woldike. There's the Verdi "Macbeth" done by Leonard Warren and Wanda Landowska's memorial album of Bach's Two and Three-part Inventions.

And besides— Mary Martin in "Sound of Music" and Tom Lehrer's new album and five lp's of Ella Fitzgerald singing Gershwin. Buy all five or one or two, as you like.

At the music department of the University Store, the Columbus Boychoir sings Christmas carols, Arthur Bigelow plays the carillon and everybody sings "Fiorello!" Bruno Walter's new Westminster Choir recording of the Beethoven Ninth is here, too.

For books, the U. Store says, why not Faulkner? Or the new "Boswell for the Defense: 1769-1774." General Foods puts out a cook book that includes international cookery and quantity cookery, and Margaret Mead puts out t book on antiropolgy for children that includes all races and creeds in one magnificently big volume.

Ling H'Yuan on a toad in ivory, is Little Gallery's contribution to Christmas. It's one of many museum reproductions. You may also have a gold-plated figure from Central America, or Dudley Morris' "Morven" print to go with his "Nassau Hall." Originals signed by Picasso, Matisse, Braque and so on, are $20 to $450 at the Gallery.

Lots of old prints of fruits, flowers and birds here, including framed Audubon's from the octavo edition for $15 each.

Princeton's Book Mart on Palmer Square has the two-volume Larousse Encyclopedia of (1.) Astronomy and (2.) Mythology at $12.50 each, a pre-Christmas price. Frank Lloyd's Drawings are $35, an architect's treasurer. "War Lover," . . . "Devil's Advocate" . . . Bernstein's "Joy of Music" . . . "Masterpieces of Figure Painting" (this for grandfather) . . . we can hardly wait til Christmas morning.

LACK OF SPACE AND NERVE: Only a lack of space is keeping Mrs. Peggy Perone (right), who already has four girls, from having eight more children, she says. If she had the nerve, Mrs. Richard Coffee claims she'd go Mrs. Perone one better. To learn what other people wish they had the nerve to do, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What do you wish most you had the nerve to do?
Location: In front of the Post Office.

Mrs. Mary Jane Nadzam, 164 Grover Avenue, housewife: To invest capital in real estate. I need the "nerve" to do it initially.

Howard Bartholomew, Princeton Airport, airport manager: Join the sky divers and make a parachute jump. You're never too old, they tell me.

Mrs. Peggy Perone, former Princeton resident recently moved to Trenton, housewife: To have a dozen kids. If I had the room, I would, too.

Mrs. Richard Coffee, Hendrickson Road, Lawrenceville, housewife: If I had the nerve, I'd have one more than Mrs. Perone—and then move right next door to her.

The Rev. D. C. Thomas, 45 Birch Avenue, minister: To live holy.

Miss Helen Paul, Lambert House, registered nurse: To take a trip around the world. I can't get up enough nerve to spend the money.

Charles L. Parker, Sr., Old Road, consultant: Not so much nerve as age. To make a clean break from many life-time habits of thought.

Mrs. Duncan Doyle, 255 Hamilton Avenue, housewife: To take up flying. I was up once and it fascinated me and I loved it, but I don't have the nerve to go again.

John Gates, Princeton University freshman: I wish I had the nerve to quit school and go out and live on my own.

Mrs. Wallace Sherman, Oak Lane, Hightstown, secretary: Go to Europe. I've always wanted to travel.

Robert Best, 9 Palmer Square, ORC survey director: The nerve to restrain myself from doing some of the things I know I shouldn't do, such as judging a situation too quickly without getting all the facts and judging people too quickly.

Mrs. M. A. Mayers, 47 Balsam Lane, housewife: The nerve to ask why family planning information and publicity is not given to all those who ask for it in Princeton Hospital.

John Carroll, 37 Moran Avenue, salesman: I'd like to sit down and write a letter to the editor on controversial questions. However, this is as much a question of capability as it is nerve.

Corky White, 124 Quaker Road: I wish I had the nerve not to wear lipstick when I apply for a job in New York City.

Howard Young, Trenton, draftsman for architectural firm on Nassau Street: I wish I had the nerve to get married.

Ann Daingersfield, Boudinot Street, assistant in the University language department: This summer I wish that I had had the nerve to go to Europe to look for a job.

Fred Goeke, Sr., Van Kirk Road, plumbing and heating contractor: To take a trip in a jet plane, but I wouldn't have the nerve—not at those speeds. The ones they're building now will go 1400 miles an hour.

Frances Telese, 303 Ewing Street, office worker: To take a trip by myself out West.

G. W. P. Silverstein, 50 Princeton Avenue, retired: I feel that there isn't anything I don't have the nerve to do in spite of my age.

Mrs. J. B. Hendricksen, Brielle, housewife: The nerve to go on a rocket trip to the moon—if I live long enough and they become commercial.

Nerve Needed

No doubt because they'd be too brassy to be bearable, most people lack the nerve to do certain things they sometimes dream of carrying out. So Town Topics' Inquiring Reporter asked a number of Princeton area residents what sort of dreams they had along these lines.

The answers varied in intriguing fashion, including one seasonal reply from a woman who admitted she wished she had the nerve not to go on sending out dozens of Christmas cards, but didn't have the nerve to give her name and address for publication. Then there's the man for whom the upcoming Leap Year may bring a few phone calls from the girls—he said he wished he had enough nerve to get married.

The question brings to mind the story of two Princetonians —brothers—one of whom not only wished he had the nerve to punch his boss in the jaw but did. Naturally, he was promptly fired and that same day, the other one not only had the nerve to apply for the job—but got it.

SPORTS In Princeton

ACTION IN THE RINK

Two Games This Weekend. The forward movement that is being predicted for Princeton's hockey team will get its first real test this weekend when the Tigers face a pair of opponents on successive evenings. Providence College will be in Baker Rink Friday at 8, with Army on tap 24 hours later.

The Rhode Island sextet generally ranks among the better eastern teams, and has already handed its cross-city rival, Brown, an 8-1 lacing. Army, somewhat less dangerous is the more likely victim of the two.

The Orange and Black outscored its first two opponents last week, 18 to 1, but the opposition was understandably the weakest it will face all year. Colgate, returning to formal hockey for the first time since 1951, now that it has acquired artificial ice, was a 12-0 victim on Friday. Next afternoon, a potentially-strong but unorganized alumni contingent lost, 4 to 1.

Colgate yielded six goals in the first period, Princeton resident Lance Odden of the second line caging three of them. Five more followed in the second frame as goalies Barry Van Gerbig and Bo Torrey blanked the inexperienced visitors. Sumner Rulon-Miller, on the ice after a season of ineligibility last year, began to follow in brother Harry's footsteps by caging a pair, as did Pete Cook.

The alumni showed flashes of old-time ability, and some of the going was occasionally on the rough side, despite the fact that all combatants were wearing orange and black uniforms. Tony Pell, Bill Miller, Captain John McBride and Hugh Scott scored for the varsity, with the alumni averting a shutout when John Pratt passed to Bevis Longstreth. As always, All-American Hank Bothfeld was a standout for the graduates.

Princeton area residents, past or present, playing for the alumni included Mike and Dave Erdman, Fred and Bill Schluter, Chuck Weeden, Longstreth, Al Gardner and George Hackl. Dick Vaughan coached his former players.

QUINTET SURPRISES

With Victory over Lafayette. Three days after it had lost, 66-48, to a sharpshooting Villanova quintet, Princeton's young basketball team gave brighter evidence of future success than had been expected of it by edging Lafayette, 69-68. The Tigers led most of the way over the veteran Leopard aggregation, but needed a pair of second-half rallies to clinch the decision.

Sinking a fine 50 percent of the first-half shots, the Orange and Black left the floor on the long end of a 42-36 count. But for some shoddy defensive play in the closing seconds, which cost them five quick points, the Tigers would have had an 11-point bulge at the intermission.

The visitors closed the gap when play resumed, and the lead changed hands seven times. With a little more than three minutes to go, the score was tied at 68-all.

Working slowly, the Tigers set up a one-handed push shot by Captain Jim Brangan that hit the nets from 25 feet out. Lafayette missed on a screen shot by 6-5 Charlie Ross, fouled the Tigers as they drove down floor and gained an apparent advantage when sophomore Pete Campbell missed the first of a one-and-one sequence.

However, the Leopards missed again, Princeton grabbed the rebound and when Campbell was fouled once more, referee John Stevens called it deliberate and awarded two shots. Campbell missed the first but made the second and the three-point lead stood up as Lafayette drove in for an uncontested lay-up with five seconds left.

A first half in which all its inexperienced showed cost Princeton any chance to make it close against Villanova. Held scoreless for better than ten minutes midway through the opening period, the Tigers trailed, 30 to 13 at the intermission. They narrowed the gap with a far better second half performance but the Wildcats had no trouble remaining in front.

OTHER SPORTS

Swimmers to Face N.Y.U. The varsity swimming team will meet New York University at 4:30 Saturday in Dillon Pool, opening its season with hopes of topping the .500 mark. George Brakeley, whose grandfather is vice-president emeritus of the University, is a standout entry in the distance events, holding the Princeton mark for the 440-yard freestyle — a fine 4:51.1.

Jimmy Reed will take his wrestlers to New Brunswick to face Rutgers Saturday night in a match the Scarlet figures to win.

(A person falling from a great height never reaches a speed of more than 118 miles per hour as proved in American army experiments during World War I. This is not enough speed to bring a pressure sufficient to cause blackout. See A. S. E. Ackermann, POPULAR FALLACIES, 1924, pp. 66 - 67.)

SHOPPING CENTER OPENS

Will Serve Kendall Park Area. The formal dedication and opening of the new 22-store Kendall Park Shopping Center took place Thursday, with the cutting of a ribbon by the builder of the Center, Herbert J. Kendall, a resident of Heather Lane, Princeton. Mr. Kendall is also the creator of Kendall Park, a community designed to grow to approximately 1,500 homes.

The new center is not a "regional center," Mr. Keodall said, "but is planned as a service center. The primary purpose for its construction stems from the immediate needs of the 900 families now living in Kendall Park." The architect of the Center, which features an unusual saw-tooth roof design and large carport overhangs, is David Savidge, Drake's Corner Road.

Located on a 10-acre tract on Route 27 at the corner of Allsbn Road in South Brunswick Township, the shopping center, which cost over $1,000,000 to build, contains 75,000 square feet of building area and parking space for over 550 cars. All but two stores have been rented.

CAROLS SCHEDULED

For Carillon Recital. Several well-known Christmas carols will be among the compositions played this Sunday at 3 p.m. on the new American carillon of Westminster Choir College. They include "I Wonder As I Wander," "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" and "Carol of the Bells." Works by Bach, Menotti, Kountz and Bain will also be played.

The new carillon, made by Schulmerich Carillons, Inc., will be played by Robert J. Carwithen, a teaching fellow at Westminster Choir College who was a carilloneur at the Brussels World's Fair in 1958. As carillon recitals are best heard out of doors, the public is invited to park on the college grounds or in the immediate vicinity.

PULPITS EXCHANGED

By Unitarian Ministers. The Rev. Streughan L. Gettier of Princeton Unitarian Church will exchange pulpits this weekend with the Rev. Ralph N. Helverson, minister of the First Parish in Cambridge, Mass.

The Rev. Mr. Helverson will preach at the 11 a.m. service at the church this Sunday and will also address a forum meeting Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Music Room of Murray Dodge Hall. Topic of his talk at the forum will be "Ten Points of Liberal Faith." This meeting is under the auspices of the Liberal Religious Association of Princeton University.

The Rev. Mr. Gettier will preach at the Cambridge church on Sunday and will also give a lecture at Harvard University that evening. His lecture will be sponsored by the Billings Fund of the American Unitarian Association.

INSTALLATION PLANNED

In Kendall Park. New officers of Kendall Park Jewish Center, Temple Beth Shalom, will be installed at services this Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the temple. Officers of the Women's and Men's Groups will be installed at the same time.

Installing officer and guest speaker will be Philip Gurian, member of the executive committee of the New Jersey Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. Rabbi Erwin Frenkel will give the invocation and benediction.

Neil A. Goldwasser, past president of the center, will be host for the evening. A buffet supper and dancing will follow the ceremonies.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Merlin Theatre of Princeton Theological Seminary will present "Christ in the Concrete City" this Sunday at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary of Second Presbyterian Church. Written in 1965 by Philip Turner, an English playwright, the drama was originally presented by the Pilgrim Players of England. The Merlin Theatre will tour with it to churches in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. All members of the Princeton community are invited to attend the performance here.

CHRISTMAS PREVIEW: Among the members of Women's Alliance of Unitarian Church making holiday decorations to be sold at church's Christmas Fair, scheduled for Saturday, are (left to right) Mrs. L. W. Collins, church membership chairman; Mrs. Joseph E. Bachelder, social service chairman for the Alliance, and Mrs. Harry K. Eby, Alliance secretary. (Staff Photo)

A collection of rare Bibles will be displayed at the Cambridge School in Kendall Park this Sunday from 9:15 a.m. to 12:30. The display is sponsored by Community Presbyterian Church of the Sand Hills in connection with Universal Bible Sunday. Included will be a first edition of the Geneva Bible, dated about 1592, a copy of the 1536 Martin Luther German Bible, and an English Book of Common Prayer printed in 1630, as well as other Bibles in Hebrew, Greek, French, Spanish and English.

Lecture on Wesley. John Wesley will be the subject of the sixth address in the public lecture series, Great Religious Thinkers of Western Civilization, to be held this Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church. Speaker will be Dr. Franz Hildebrandt, professor of Christian Theology at Drew University. Dr. Douglas W. Alden of Princeton University's Department of Romance Languages will serve as moderator. Those interested in attending are asked to call Mrs. Rene A. Braden at WA 4-3414.

About 3,500 persons attended the Christmas Fair of Trinity Episcopal Church last Saturday. While financial returns are not yet known, Mrs. Robert J. Shaw, fair chairman, said that this year's event is expected to be as successful as last year's, judging by the turnout. A new feature which proved especially popular was the children's table. Adults were barred from this table so that children could purchase Christmas gifts for parents, relatives and friends in privacy.

The annual Youth Consultation Service Benefit Dance will be held Tuesday, December 22, at 9 p.m. at Pierce Hall of Trinity Episcopal Church. Mrs. Henderson Talbot is dance chairman.

Professor M. L. Diamond of the Department of Religion of Princeton University will be guest speaker this Sunday at 8 p.m. at a meeting at Princeton Jewish Center. His topic will be "Is There a Religious Basis for Religious Tolerance?" The meeting is open to the public.

SIMILAR START

PHS Quintet Drops Opener. After losing its opener to high-flying Neptune High School by a wide margin, the Princeton High School basketball team will meet Hightstown High Friday at 8 on the Rams' court. Hightstown was one of the few opponents the Little Tigers were able to beat last season and Coach Tony Borzok's five hopes to break even before meeting Freehold here on Wednesday.

In last year's opener with Neptune, PHS suffered a 71-42 beating. Apparently little has changed for either team, as Coach Larry Hennessey's squad did it again on Tuesday by the almost identical score of 73-41. Although the Little Tigers were a much improved ball club in the second half, they never seriously threatened the visitors, who jumped to a 12-1 lead in the opening minutes of the game. Five minutes and 55 seconds were to go by before Arnie Freeman's push shot from the side gave PHS its first two-pointer and almost ten minutes passed before it managed to garner a lay-up.

PHS Starts Slowly. Freeman's basket, a free throw by Ted Meredith and a field goal by Marty McGuinness were the only points the Blue and White could muster in the first quarter. The home team suffered from tenseness and poor ball handling, while Neptune used its height, good ball control and superior shooting to underscore the difference between the two teams.

In the second quarter, the Little Tigers' play improved as they scored a dozen points to 16 for the shore quintet. The rally was paced by Jack Lackey, who began the game on the bench but wound up with 20 points for the afternoon. Most of his efforts were one-handed push-shots from side court.

If its inexperience showed, Princeton High was nonetheless able to produce a full share of hustle and spirit, qualities that will make the difference in many a close contest. As the Blue and White gains valuable know-how in the games ahead, an upswing in its fortunes seems bound to develop.

HUN TO OPEN SEASON

Opposes Bryn Athyn Friday. The Hun School basketball season will open Friday as Coach George Selleck's five meets Bryn Athyn at 3 at the Princeton Seminary Gym. Wednesday, the team travels to face Solebury School in Pennsylvania.

Selleck's five meets Bryn Athyn at 3 at the Princeton Seminary Pennsylvania.

"The best material I've had in Gym. Wednesday, the team travthree years," is the way Coach els to face Solebury School in Selleck describes this season's team. Selleck, a former Stanford University player and now a student at Princeton Seminary, will be coaching the Hun basketball team for his third and last year. He adds that next year the team, now composed mostly of juniors, "should be really terrific." Selleck and his sophomores last fall were able to win only two games.

Hun's 1959-60 opposition: Dec. 11, Bryn Athyn (H); 16, Solebury (A); Jan. 9, Pennington (H); 13, Moorestown (A); 16 George School (H); 22, Germantown Academy (A); Feb. 3, Solebury (H); 6, Bryn Athyn (A); 11, Chestnut Hill (H); 13, Delbarton (A); 16, Tower Hill (H); 18, Pennington (A); 24, Pingry (A).

Nor is it a '59 warmed over. This is a complete NEW line of economy cars in the low-price field. Dodge Dart features— rustproof, rattleproof Unibody construction—the new Economy Slant "6", most modern "6" in the industry or new D-500 Ram Induction V-8—styling as fresh and new as 1960! There's nothing modest about Dodge Dart, EXCEPT THE PRICE. Want us to prove it? Come in today.

THE GREAT QUESTIONS of Western Man, No. 1 of a series brought to you as a public service by The Little Gallery. This series will solve a great problem of Western civilization each week. Watch closely for these questions because they have relevance to our everyday lives, although they are abstract and absoluta.

Question No. 1: Which is more important, the sun or the moon? Answer No. 1: The moon is much more important, because it gives us light at night, while the sun shines during the day, when there is plenty of light anyway.

Another Great Question of Western Man will be answered next week.

UNICEF CARDS

There is a special kind of modern greeting cards which does much more than convey wishes of happiness. UNICEF Greeting Cards, published by the United Nation's Children's Fund, actually bring happiness in the form of improved health and a better chance for survival, to countless needy children in underdeveloped areas of the world.

The profits from a single box of ten cards priced at $1.25 can provide 45 children with a glass of milk every day for a week in areas of the world where it is estimated that children are fed the equivalent of one school lunch every two days.

Originally formed to supply emergency foods, mostly milk, to the children of war-torn Europe and Palestine, UNICEF has become the world's greatest organization entirely devoted to the welfare of children and mothers. The emphasis is now long-range health programs. UNICEF is currently aiding more than 100 countries and territories in medical and nutrition programs, designed to become a permanent part of each country's health service. Not a give-away plan, each aided country matches the value of UNICEF supplies on a average ratio of more than $2.00 for each dollar of UNICEF aid.

So far, with UNICEF's help, more than 103 million children have been vaccinated against TB; the BCG vaccine to protect 100 children costs UNICEF $1. Over 21 million persons, more than half of them mothers and children, have been cured of yaws, a crippling tropical disease that usually disappears after a single shot of penicillin which costs UNICEF five cents. Up to 1959, 3.9 million children had been saved from blindness—the aureomycin to treat trachoma costs UNICEF 35 cents.

Each year, some of the world's most famous artists have donated their works to be reproduced as UNICEF Greeting Cards. This year they include a man whom many critics consider the most important painter of the post-cubist period — Joan Miro. His card, "Children and Birds," combines fanciful symbols with child-like figures typical of his own world of poetry and magic. Miro's admirers will recognize a source of inspiration which has been compared to that of the caveman opposing evil spirits by scratching images into rock. Newcomers to Miro's exciting, unique form of art will consider this one of the most "modern" greeting cards they have ever seen.

Symbols also prevail in the festive scene painted by American-Chinese artist Dong Kingman, whose name is synonymous with water-color technique. Surrounding his "Fountain of Peace," the flags of the United Nations Security Council member nations for 1959 bear witness to international efforts for better mutual understanding.

Central European artist Jozsef Domjan's contributions to "all the world's children" are two woodcuts in the relief-like texture characteristic of his style, a "Fairy Tale Shepherd" shadowed and sunlighted by intense green and vivid yellow, and a radiant "Fairy Godmother" with flying ribbons and a large embroidered red and gold skirt.

Bettina, famous children's books illustrator, has captured the gaiety and simple charm of youngsters from different parts of the world in the warm tones of five different cards. The peace and universality of "Christmas Eve" is conveyed in a delicate hushed winter scene by Doris Lee, another outstanding painter and illustrator.

UNICEF Cards are being sold locally by the Princeton branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. In Princeton contact Mrs. Leo Dratfield, 81 Harris Road, WA 1-8907; Mrs. Loren Johnston, 101 Overbrook Drive, WA 1-6118; Mrs. Paul Schlever, 184 Prospect Avenue, WA 1-8038; in Rocky Hill, Mrs. Leonard Steinline, Princeton Avenue, WA 4-1265.
